Turned an old trailer into a liveable home.

By Jeffrey Briggs on November 16, 2013

Verified Purchase

So, long story short... The mobile home a friend lives in had such horrible water pressure that the shower barely sprayed beyond the tub spigot and it also took 5 minutes to fill the toilet tank after flushing. The washing machine cycle took over an hour on a large load as well. I asked 3 plumbing supply places if something like this was available and they said no... Liars!!! I also bought...SHURflo 255-313 Classic Series Twist-On Strainer (1/2" FPT x 1/2") and screwed it right onto the pump, used braided hoses for a toilet tank and a sink to adapt it into the main line. Now the shower hits the back wall, the toilet fills in under 30 seconds, and it's what I consider to be "liveable." it was transferring vibration directly to the frame just using the rubber mounts and noisy, but I went back, mounted the pump to a board then used 1" thick styrofoam between the board and mounting place and now it's able to be heard, but not obnoxious. After seeing the difference it made there another friend ordered one for his house and is installing it now. :-)

Hard working little pump.

By Griz44Mag on January 10, 2012

Verified Purchase

I bought this to use for my home emergency water supply. If the incoming water supply fails, this little pump will take over automatically. I set the pressure kick in switch a few pounds under the utility supply so it will be fully automatic upon a source failure. It works like a charm. It's nice to have toilets that fill and showers that work if you lose your utility water supply, which has happened to us 3 times in the last year.

PROS: Very reliable and works every time without fail. Flow is sufficient to supply the shower, but forget filling a tub with it. The adjustable pressure switch makes it very easy to integrate into an automatic fail safe system. Hookup is super easy with the pipethread to hose bib adapters you can get at any hardware store. It can run dry without hurting it. It is self priming. It is available in 12VDC, 24VDC or 110VAC, just about anything you could be using for mobile or emergency battery use.

CONS: The diaphragms are a bit noisy, but in some ways that is good because you know when it is running. If you let it run for a long period of time, like trying to fill a bathtub, it gets very hot. The built in thermal will cut it off before damage occurs. A fin kit for cooling is available, but costs extra.

Shur-Flo products perform!

By Richard Clark on December 4, 2012

Verified Purchase

I live in Mexico and everyone here uses bottled water. I just bought a new refrigerator with an icemaker. I needed to get purified water from the 5 gallon bottles into the icemaker so decided to use this pump. It works really well but I've ordered an accumulator to take the pulsations out of the water pressure. The pump works very well and I'd recommend it to anyone.

Great for a Rain Barrel System

By RT on September 8, 2016

Verified Purchase

I bought this pump to avoid building a platform to raise my rain barrel setup off the ground for pressure. The on-demand feature works great and means we can use a spray/trigger nozzle anywhere the hose reaches in the yard. Without the pump there wasn't enough pressure to use the sprayer.

Concerning the 1/2" male threads -- after reading reviews and the product data sheet, I was concerned that the parallel threads would be an issue (i.e. there weren't many suitable fitting options). Research while the pump was in transit suggested that mating parallel threads were only available in metal hydraulic hose fittings (the pump manufacturer recommends not using metal fittings) or Shurflo's own fittings (which looked cheap). However, I

Great pump, but crappy connections

Got this pump to replace another pump I bought on Amazon that failed within a month. Liked this one because it is diaphragm rather than impellers. Seems well built. Read more

Excellent pump

This pump has exceeded my hopes. The capacities, as are published, serve a single fixture well. It definitely is heard, but is tolerable. Read more

Please re-examine the threads.....

The threads on the intake stripped immediately. Luckily I had my old unit and was able to take the head off and switch with the housing that had the stripped threads. Read more

Don't buy! Stopped working in less than a month.

I bought this pump last month and it already quit working! I hooked it up and it was making ice just fine up until last week, when I noticed I didn't have any ice. Published 5 days ago by i used 1/2" NPT to PEX push fittings from a big box store without issues. There are no leaks and the PEX provides a non-rigid connection since the pump vibrates while operating.

Nice cold transfer pump for homebrewers/winemakers

By Steven Bloomfield on February 11, 2014

I use this to transfer from my fermenter to my keg. I attached it to a cheap router speed controller to slow it down. With this I should be able to use a plate filter into the keg but I haven't tried that yet. I also use it to pump from 5 gallon jugs into my brew pots to save my back.
